VOTE Premier Darrell Dexter's NDP have picked up another seat in the Nova Scotia legislature.

Maurice Smith easily won a provincial byelection yesterday in Antigonish, a riding previously held by the Conservatives and one never before won by the New Democrats.

"It's always thrilling when you win a seat that you haven't won before," Dexter said.

In a second byelection, the Conservatives retained their seat in Inverness when Allan MacMaster won the riding recently held by former premier Rodney MacDonald.

Smith picked up 3,310 votes in Antigonish — 450 more than the second-place candidate Darren Thompson of the Conservatives. The result was much closer in Inverness, where MacMaster won by 50 votes over Ian McNeil of the Liberals.

The NDP win increases Dexter's majority to 32 seats, to 11 for the Liberals and nine for the Tories.

NDP limiting party gift-givers

Bill bans companies, unions from donating

"This is clearly a political move by the New Democratic Party."

Liberal Leader
Stephen McNeil

Unions and companies will no longer be allowed to donate money to political parties in Nova Scotia under an NDP bill announced yesterday.

Only individuals will be allowed to donate up to $5,000. The bill will lighten the pocketbooks of all three parties but the Liberals will be hurt most of all.

Under the new law parties will not be able to use money from "held assets," which some see as a not-so-subtle way to cut off the Liberal's $2.3-million segregated asset fund. For decades the Liberals have leaned on that fund to help finance their operations.

The fund has long been controversial because it was tied to illegal fundraising in the 1970s. But the Liberals say they purged the fund of dirty money back in the early 1990s.

Justice Minister Ross Landry said the Liberals will have to find some other use for the money now. "They could choose to give it to charity," Landry suggested to the media. "That would be the noble thing to do."

Landry said the new legislation will level the playing field. He said because only individuals can cast votes it's fair to only allow them to make donations.

The Tories have their own separate fund, but they still support the cuts. Liberal Leader Stephen McNeil was more critical, saying the NDP are "trying to cripple both opposition parties."

"This is clearly a political move by the New Democratic Party. I'm really disappointed, quite frankly, that the chief electoral officer's advice on third-party advertising wasn't part of this reform," McNeil said.

The issue of third-party ads popped up over the election campaign when union pamphlets were sent with endorsements for the NDP platform.

Court reviews surveillance tape of Hyde's final hours

INQUIRY Grainy images from a silent surveillance videotape flickered in a hushed Halifax courtroom yesterday as a public inquiry started a painstaking visual review of the actions of jail guards and health officials during the final hours of Howard Hyde's life.

Hyde, a 45-year-old musician with a long history of mental illness, died on the morning of Nov. 22, 2007 after a brief struggle with guards at the Central Nova Scotia Correctional Facility. The first two videos played yesterday showed Hyde leaving a van in shackles and entering the jail, where he sits on a stool as his paperwork is processed by Chris Dixon, a correctional officer.

In another video, Dixon and other guards can be seen coming and going from a hallway on the following morning.

Earlier, Dixon told the inquiry Hyde had struggled with guards that morning and was taken down the hallway to a cell.

Dixon also recalled that Hyde, who was handcuffed behind the back at the time, continued to struggle as he was pulled inside the cell by at least two other guards.

The officer said Hyde was eventually subdued by an officer who was straddling him inside the cell. "We thought it was all over," said Dixon, noting that Hyde appeared to stop resisting the officer.

But it soon became clear Hyde was no longer conscious as officers called out his name and received no response. THE CANADIAN PRESS

2nd Nocturne art showcase a hit

Nocturne: Art at Night is celebrating a successful second edition as about 9,000 people are estimated to have come out for the six-hour showcase that featured 80 exhibitions of art, events and performances in Halifax and Dartmouth. The total easily tops last year's estimated a crowd of about 5,000. A news release issued by Nocturne organizers yesterday said the over 30 participating galleries saw "a steady stream of traffic and record-breaking numbers." Organizers are already planning next year's event, with the date to be finalized soon. METRO HALIFAX

Teens arrested after police chase stolen car

CRIME Two teenagers were arrested yesterday afternoon in Halifax after they allegedly led cops on a high-speed chase and then rammed their car into a police cruiser.

The incident began around 11:30 a.m. yesterday morning, when police say they attempted to pull a car over along Herring Cove Road for a traffic violation. Instead of stopping, police say the driver sped up, resulting in a brief chase which was called off almost immediately when speeds reached dangerous levels.

"It turned out the vehicle had just been stolen," said Halifax Regional Police spokesman Const. Brian Palmeter.

Using a tip from a witness, the police cornered the suspects a short time later in a small lane off Harbourview Drive in Halifax's south end. According to Palmeter, the driver spotted the police cruiser and accelerated toward it, striking the vehicle and knocking off the driver's side mirror. The lone officer inside the cruiser was unhurt.

"The suspects then tried to flee on foot ... but we were able to track them using our canine unit, leading to their arrest," said Palmeter.

Charges are expected to be laid against a 16-year-old from Halifax and a 17-year-old from Harrietsfield in connection with the incident.

N.S. tuition second-highest

But province only one in Canada to see decrease in fees

ALEX BOUTILIER
for Metro Halifax

Well, at least we're not No. 1 any more.

Nova Scotia now ranks No. 2 among provinces in highest average tuition costs, with an average fee of $5,696, according to numbers released by Statistics Canada yesterday. Ontario bumped the province out of the top spot, with an average cost of $5,951.

This is the second consecutive year Nova Scotia has seen a decrease in tuition, and is the only province to see a decline in the cost of higher education.

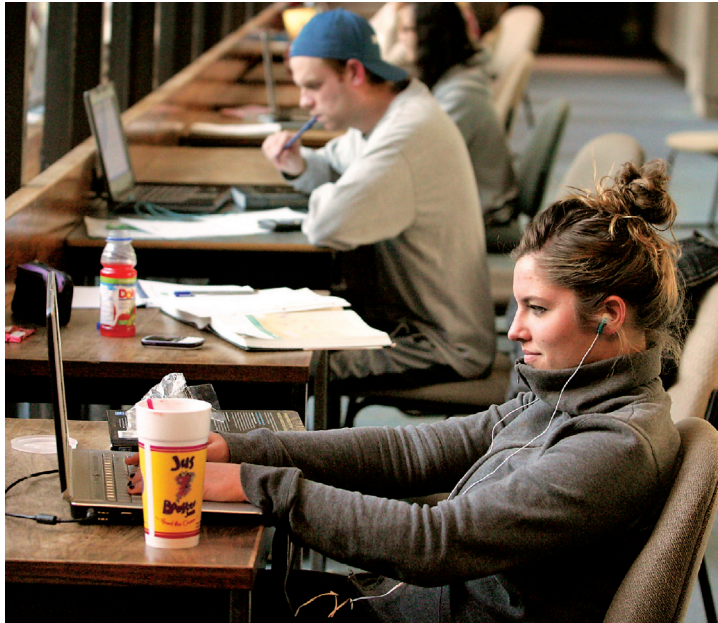

But while tuition fees are declining — by 3.1 per cent for 2009-10 — Nova Scotia is still above the national average of $4,917.

"We're the only province in Canada where tuition has actually gone down by 3.1 per cent. So we're very pleased that the trend is supporting the students and helping to keep them in this province," Education Minister Marilyn More told reporters yesterday.

She added the province is hoping to lower tuition fees or keep them frozen until they reach the national average.

But Mark Coffin, executive director of the Alliance of Nova Scotia Student Associations, said while he's glad to see the cost of tuition decreasing, he thinks the province can be doing more.

"When you look at the

from government, both provincial and federal."

Coffin added while universities in Nova Scotia are seeing an increase in enrolment, he is hesitant to attribute the increase to lower tuition costs.

School janitor on leave as RCMP study alleged sex assault

INVESTIGATION A school janitor has been placed on paid leave during a Halifax RCMP investigation into an alleged sexual assault of a teenage girl from his church.

severity of the charges, it's in the best interest of everybody that he be placed on a leave and not return to the school while this is before him."

Hadley added the board "has no reason to believe that any of (their) students were ever at any risk."

Haynes, who has worked for the school board since 2003, operated at night and was not in the building when students were present, Hadley said.

Rev. Gary Barrett, a pastor at Full Gospel Church where Haynes formerly volunteered, issued a statement saying Haynes was not in a position of leadership during the time of the alleged assault.

Const. Joe Taplin with the Halifax RCMP said he could not confirm the name of the accused, nor the specific charges until they are formally sworn in.

"Once the information has been sworn we can release it," Taplin said, adding the accused has been released to appear in court on Dec. 15.

CTV is reporting the alleged victim is now 21 years old, but the charges date back to when she was 15.

Man wanted after shooting turns himself in to cops

DARTMOUTH Halifax Regional Police have arrested a man following a drive-by shooting in Dartmouth this summer.

Julian Frederick Chittick, who was being sought on a Canada-wide warrant from Sept. 17, turned himself into police yesterday just before 4 a.m.

Twenty-four-year-old Chittick was to appear in Dartmouth Provincial Court later in the day to face charges of attempted murder, dangerous operation of a motor vehicle and a number of weapons-related offences.

Police were called to Lakecrest Drive on June 29 in relation to shots being fired from a vehicle.

The intended victim, a 16-year-old Halifax youth who was believed to have been in the vehicle, jumped out before the shots were fired.

No bullets struck the victim, but police say he was injured as he fled for his safety.

More than 250 emergency management experts from federal, provincial, municipal and private-sector organizations will participate.

They will practice existing emergency plans and protocols to ensure that all agencies can collaborate effectively during a real marine incident.

The exercise will result in an increase in marine activity, primarily on the Dartmouth side of the Halifax harbour near the Bedford Institute of Oceanography.

It will also take in Nova Scotia Power's Tufts Cove Generating Station and some localized areas in south Woodside.

Specialized marine safety equipment will be deployed and public warning signals triggered by private-sector participants in the exercise.

ALEX BOUILLIER

Nova Scotia Community College faculty and support staff would get a 2.9 per cent pay increase in the first year, along with one per cent increases for the next two years, should they accept a tentative three-year contract with the school, Metro Halifax has learned.

The tentative agreement made with the college late Sunday also includes increasing the current salary grid by one per cent retroactive to Sept. 1, 2008, basically giving them a 3.9 per cent increase in the first year. Terms of the deal were first reported on Metro's website yesterday.

The 2.9 per cent increase would be for 2008-09 and applied to the new salary grid, with the one per cent increases for 2009-10 and 2010-11.

Starting yesterday and ending today, NSCC employees in a legal strike position will be reading over the document. They will vote electronically on the contract Friday.

sents 930 NSCC faculty and support staff, had been calling for a wage increase of 2.9 per cent over this year and next, while government has spent the last several weeks saying it couldn't afford a raise over one per cent.

But yesterday Premier Darrell Dexter said he was "very comfortable" with the contract meeting the needs of employees and the government.

"Negotiations are always about having to give some in order to get a resolution" he said when approached on the topic by Metro.

Dexter denied that breaking the raise into two would set the one per cent raise precedent for upcoming union contracts while giving NSCC staff more money.

"Every set of negotiations have to be conducted on their own basis," Dexter said.

"Everybody will look at these contracts in various ways at this point I'm not going to get into what the various provisions mean."

Union president Alexis Allen told Metro on Monday she was "OK" with the contract, adding it's now up to the union to accept or reject the province's offer.

Allen did not return a phone message in regards to contract details late yesterday.

Tweaked Tory budget passes without pomp

paul.mcleod@metronews.ca

Criticized by all and loved by no one, a sad and lonely Nova Scotia budget was passed into law yesterday.

Absent was the pomp and circumstance that usually accompanies a new budget. Instead the legislature quietly passed it after question period then moved on to other business.

The government had washed its hands of this budget from before it came into office in June. Premier Darrell Dexter said it was too late in the year to create a new plan so instead 2010-11 will be the first true NDP budget, and this year they would reintroduce the Tory one with minor tweaks.

Those tweaks — especially a $341 million prepayment to universities — plus lowering the Tories' rosy economic projections lead to a $591 million deficit.

That caused the Tories to balk that this wasn't their document.

They said removing the provincial tax on home heating electricity and allocating millions to buying land was fiscally irresponsible.

Finance Minister Graham Steele shot back that the Tories hadn't budgeted near enough to combat H1N1, also known as swine flu, and had put aside "effectively zero" for union negotiations. He said the NDP had to increase spending.

Meanwhile, the Liberals have been making every effort to paint this year's books orange and have repeatedly said the deficit falls on Dexter's shoulders.

The vote was originally supposed to take place Monday but Tories held it up with a symbolic delay of defiance.

They repeatedly called for recorded votes, which causes an hour delay to give members time to get to their seats, on various procedural matters.

Eventually time ran out and the house was adjourned.

'Unconference' wants input

4 Days of urban landscape talks seeks ideas of 'every person'

ALEX BOUTILLIER

For four days this month, a new annual "unconference" will emphasize the importance of forward-thinking design for Halifax's urban landscape.

The 4 Days: Sustained by Design "unconference," taking place today through Saturday at various locations in Halifax, aims to highlight the power of design to reshape local economies, improve public services and increase quality of life in communities. According to organizers, special emphasis will be placed on sustainability throughout the discussions and presentations.

"The idea of sustainability, although you hear it academically a lot ... it's really about each of us living our lives, how we're interacting with each other," said Rachel Derah, cultural projects planner with Breakhouse, the Halifax-based design firm co-hosting 4 Days.

Wunsch added that, unless the general public is in-involved in the discussion, Halifax runs the risk of letting a small number of people decide the direction of the urban landscape.

"Having the citizenry involved in these discussions is key," Wunsch said. "It's also key that it's framed and guided in a way that the momentum (of the discussion) is kept fresh, and that one particular interest isn't taking control of the headlines."

The last phase of a major development in Halifax's north end got a final stamp of approval from Halifax Regional Council last night.

After a brief joint public hearing with the Peninsula Community Council, HRM's council voted overwhelmingly in favour of the construction of a five-storey mixed residential and commercial building and two semi-detached houses near the corner of Gladstone and Almon streets.

The structures will become part of the Gladstone Ridge development project, which has been underway in the surrounding neighbourhood for three years and already includes two 12-storey condominium towers, a six-storey apartment building and 17 houses.

The Gladstone Ridge project faced some public opposition from the start, and developer Danny Chedrawe of Westwood

Prosecutor files appeal of September acquittal in toddler's 2005 death

A notice of appeal has been filed in the recent decision to acquit Terry Dean Allen of manslaughter charges.

Allen was acquitted in mid-September in the March 2005 death of toddler Samantha Marie Mercer, who died of massive brain injuries sustained in her home.

Judge Alan Tufts said in his decision that the Crown had failed to prove beyond a reasonable doubt that Allen was guilty of the manslaughter charge.

Chris Hansen of the Nova Scotia Prosecution Service said the notice to appeal was based on three grounds:

- That the provincial court judge erred in law by making findings of fact and drawing inferences of fact based on speculation in the absence of any supporting evidence.

- That the provincial court judge erred in law by basing a finding of reasonable doubt on speculation and conjecture unsupported by evidence.

- Such other grounds of appeal as may appear from the record of the court proceedings.

If the appeal is accepted, Hansen said, the earliest date it could be heard would be in the spring.

Minister of Justice and Attorney General of Canada Rob Nicholson holds a press conference to discuss white-collar crime legislation in Ottawa yesterday.

Tackling White-Collar Crime

Bill has hucksters facing at least 2 years in jail

White-collar criminals who balk their victims of more than $1 million will face at least two years in jail, under new legislation the federal government plans to introduce this week.

Justice Minister Rob Nicholson, flanked by representatives of victims groups, announced yesterday he'll table a bill to impose stiffer sentences on white-collar criminals, bar them for life from handling people's money and possibly force them to pay their victims back.

He also indicated Public Safety Minister Peter Van Loan is preparing measures to ensure white-collar criminals can't win parole after serving just one-sixth of their sentences.

"We are committed to cracking down on white-collar crime and increasing justice for victims by providing tougher sentences for the criminals responsible," Nicholson said.

Fraud "can be every bit as devastating as a physical assault."

The minister has sought the spotlight on these measures, announcing his intentions for the bill several times recently, in interviews and news conferences.

But legal experts and victims alike immediately wondered whether the new legislation would be any more effective than the current regime.

The list includes paying attention to the financial and psychological impact of the fraud, whether the offender broke licensing rules and standards and the complexity of the scheme.

Activist groups threaten to hit city with lawsuit

Animal rights groups are threatening a lawsuit unless the City of Edmonton agrees by next month to move Lucy the elephant from the Valley Zoo to a sanctuary in the United States.

Zoocheck Canada and People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals have written a letter outlining their demands to Mayor Stephen Mandel and city councillors.

They have obtained a legal opinion written by prominent Toronto-based lawyer Clayton Ruby, who said in a telephone interview last Tuesday that he plans to argue that the city is violating Alberta's Animal Protection Act by keeping an animal in distress.

The legislation specifies that an animal is in distress if it's injured, sick or suffering, or subjected to undue hardship or privation.

Lucy the elephant and her handlers take a stroll at Edmonton's River Valley Zoo in this file picture from last month.

Elephant crisis

- The legal brief states the 34-year-old elephant lacks the "necessities of and comforts of life" because she is kept alone, despite acknowledgment by experts that female elephants are highly social animals and should be housed with others of their kind.

City of Edmonton agrees by Nov. 19 to allow Lucy to be shipped to a sanctuary in California. He noted a court case could cost city taxpayers dearly.

A spokesperson for the mayor's office couldn't immediately be reached for comment.

Before a visit last month by legendary game show host Bob Barker — who pleaded for Lucy's freedom — the zoo issued a report by a veterinary expert in San Diego that said the pachyderm is fine where she is and a long journey could be life-threatening.

Bus driver caught playing Sudoku?

KRISTEN THOMPSON
kristen.thompson@metronews.ca

VANCOUVER Coast Mountain Bus has launched an investigation into a video posted on YouTube yesterday that appears to show a Surrey bus driver doing a Sudoku puzzle while driving along the Fraser Highway.

Gordon McDonald told Metro Vancouver that he used his cellphone to record the driver on Monday evening aboard the Willowbrook bus that goes to Langley from King George Station.

"I was only on the bus for 10 blocks or so, and he was playing it pretty much from the time we got on the Fraser Highway to 152nd Street," said McDonald. "It was just totally inappropriate for him to be doing that."

To see the video, please visit metronews.ca

McDonald claimed he was on the same bus the previous Monday, and the same driver was reading a magazine while negotiating through "start-and-stop traffic" on a rain-soaked road.

"It just really irritated me. If my grandson had been on that bus, I would have been having a shouting match with that bus driver," said McDonald.

"This guy just seems to be oblivious to the fact that he's responsible for 20 people on the bus and everyone else on the road."

Derek Zabel, spokesperson for Coast Mountain Bus Company, said that since receiving a link to the video from Metro officials have launched an investigation.

He said there are no explicit policies in place outlining what drivers can and can't do behind the wheel, but that operators are trained to follow the law and should be using common sense.

"Our operator training is a six-week program and it's all geared toward driving safely," said Zabel. "Coast Mountain trains our drivers ... to use observation skills in which they'd check their mirrors every six to eight seconds and to constantly scan. If you're doing a Sudoku puzzle, you can't be doing that."

Scientist worked on sensitive projects

American charged with trying to sell secrets

A scientist who allegedly tried to sell classified U.S. secrets to Israel worked on the Reagan administration's Star Wars missile shield program, a former colleague said yesterday.

In an interview, Scott Hubbard said that a scientist arrested in an FBI sting, Stewart David Nozette, was primarily a technical defence expert working on the Reagan-era effort formally named the Strategic Defence Initiative.

"This was leading edge, Department of Defence national security work," said

'Tell them everything'

• In January of this year, Nozette allegedly travelled to a foreign country with two computer thumb drives and apparently did not return with them. Prosecutors also quote an unnamed colleague of Nozette who said the scientist said that if the U.S. government ever tried to put him in jail for an unrelated criminal offence, he would go to Israel or another foreign country and "tell them everything" he knows.

Hubbard, a professor of aerospace at Stanford University who worked for 20 years at NASA.

A leader in recent lunar exploration work, Nozette was arrested Monday and charged in a criminal complaint with attempting to communicate, deliver and transmit classified information, the Justice Department said.

To build a case against Nozette, FBI agents posed as officers of the Israeli intelligence service Mossad, and the criminal complaint suggests why they thought their suspect would take the bait.

From 1998 to 2008, the complaint alleges, Nozette was a technical adviser for a consultant company that was wholly owned by the Israeli government. Nozette was paid about $225,000 over that period, the court papers say.

The complaint does not allege that the government of Israel or anyone acting on its behalf violated U.S. law. In Jerusalem, Israeli government officials said they were not familiar with the case and had never heard of the suspect.

When to lock doors?

Tricky situation for migrants wanting to live in Canada

TheWestView

Paul
Sullivan

metronews.ca/thewestview

How much foolhardy courage or desperation must it take to pay someone $45,000 to board a rusty old ship, survive a lengthy trip across the Pacific, and turn up unannounced and unwanted on the shores of a strange land, only to face detention and possible deportation?

If you do succeed in getting to Canada and making a successful refugee claim, what's the payoff? A lifetime of menial jobs where most of your income goes to pay off your $45,000 "travel" debt while the rest goes to support your family at home.

So I have a great deal of sympathy for the 76 men, allegedly Tamils from Sri Lanka, currently held in Vancouver after their harrowing asylum-seeking adventure as Canadian authorities try to figure out what to do with them.

That's the kind of fortitude and durability we're looking for here in Canada.

Except... what about the hundreds of thousands of legitimate and legal refugee claimants who are stuck in detention camps around the world with little hope of ever starting a new life in Canada?

What about the migrant workers who are allowed to work here, but not live here?

What about the people who just want to immigrate to Canada, have patiently jumped through all the hoops, and get to watch as these 76 adventurers jump the queue?

It's a tough problem.

Should we take a hard line and send these guys back to Sri Lanka without considering their claims for asylum?

That's how federal Immigration Minister Jason Kenney seems to be leaning when he says we don't want to develop a reputation of having a two-tier immigration system and how we need to do a better job of shutting the back door. And these migrants certainly arrived by the back door.

Or, now that they're here, should we dutifully process their claims, and if they convince us that they are legitimate refugees from oppression or violence in Sri Lanka, should we welcome them in, not to mention their families waiting in the wings to see if the big gamble pays off?

Here's the thing: We owe it to all those legitimate noses pressed to the glass, Promised Land on the other side, to make absolutely sure these men don't face real danger back home. If not, home they go.

Otherwise, how can we continue to ask everyone else to wait patiently for their turn?

British fringe party TV invite causes an uproar

To the outrage of many Britons, a white supremacist fringe party riding a wave of electoral success has been invited to participate in a BBC prime-time TV show on politics.

Prime Minister Gordon Brown's Labour Party government says it is appalled that the far right British National Party will get such high-profile exposure to millions of viewers. The BBC, however, says as a publicly funded broadcaster it must cover all political parties that have a national presence.

"It's not for the BBC to make decisions about what parties it does and doesn't like," a BBC spokesman said yesterday on condition of anonymity in outlining the company policy. "That, quite rightly, is a decision for the electorate."

Tomorrow, BNP Leader Nick Griffin is scheduled to appear on the BBC's flagship political debate show Question Time.

Growing up in New Brunswick, Eireann Rigby was involved in competitive sports, even playing professional basketball in Europe.

Wanting to make sports and fitness accessible to the general public, Prince Edward Island's UFIT was born.

The decision to start the company — which provides pay-as-you-go $5 fitness classes for people of all ages in "a party atmosphere" — "was a very scary journey at the start," said the Charlottetown resident, now 34. "I think the first class in 2002 had eight people, and four of them were family. It's difficult to start, but you've got to believe in it and put it out there."

Seven years later, classes are held in eight locations across the island and attract up to 100 people per class.

Rigby, along with 18 other young people from each province and territory, were honoured at an awards ceremony in Ottawa to celebrate the achievements of young entrepreneurs last night.

To coincide with Small Business Week, the Business Development Bank of Canada held its 22nd annual 2009 Young Entrepreneur Awards for people aged 19 and 35.

The award recipients have realized their dreams in innovative ways, said BDC President and CEO Jean-Rene Halde.

In meeting all the winners, Rigby said there was a huge variety of businesses and achievements, but that all the entrepreneurs share a commonality.

"Everyone has a passion," she said.

head, 28, turned his passion for sport into a thriving cycle, cross-country ski and snowshoe shop that has since grown to include a specialty coffee shop.

"I started cycling when I was 12-, 13-years-old," said Ollerhead. "My dad could leave me in the bike shops all day."

At 20, he opened Cycle Solutions, and two years ago, opened Brewed Awakening.

"If you're passionate about something, that's what you've got to focus on," he said.

That passion found Toronto's John Carbreay early. He started Intrafinity Inc. in 2001, during his first year at the University of Toronto.

Now 27, Carbreay thinks "people have to go for what they're passionate about," he said. "Being an entrepreneur and trying something new — you might succeed, or you might fail, but you will be better for it," he said.

Last night's winners include:

BoC's warning
downs dollar

A warning about the state of the economy from the Bank of Canada drove down the loonie by nearly two cents yesterday, wiping out recent gains in a matter of hours.

In one of the gloomier reports in months, the central bank's governing council declared a strong loonie would threaten Canada's recovery, saying its recent rise had already more than offset encouraging signs seen over the summer.

"(The) heightened volatility and persistent strength in the Canadian dollar are working to slow growth and subdue inflation pressures," the bank said.

As expected, it kept the policy interest rate moored at the historic low of 0.25 per cent, the level it's been at since the spring.

The impact of the statement could be seen instantly — the currency dropped a cent within minutes and kept falling. The currency was at 95.35 cents US at mid-afternoon, down 1.8 cents US from Monday.

Economists said the reason for the drop was mostly because the bank had been expected to raise interest rates.

Bottomley returns to Halifax arena, this time on visitors' bench

MATTHEW WUEST

matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

Jim Bottomley figures he has spent more time at the Halifax Forum than anybody on the planet.

He stood behind Halifax Junior A benches for more than two decades as a head coach — winning 10 Maritime titles and a national championship — and has been honoured with a plaque commemorating his achievements.

But the 54-year-old has never been on the opposing bench at the Forum, and is about to get a new vantage point when he returns as head coach of the Bridgewater Lumberjacks to face the Halifax Lions tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

For the first time, he'll be a stranger in his own home.

"I'm looking forward to getting back in the old building," Bottomley said. "I have a lot of memories in that place and I'm hoping to come back and put on a good show."

The Halifax native returned to the Junior A loop this season after a four-year hiatus. He retired in May and is enjoying his full-time commitment to coaching. The Lumberjacks, who practice daily at

Junior A result

• The Halifax Lions defeated the host Dieppe Commandos 4-3 in a shootout in Maritime Junior A Hockey League action last night in New Brunswick. Kyle Dilosa potted the shootout winner while Stuart Lenahan, Dylan King and Robbie Veriker scored in regulation. Lions goaltender Kody Blois made 31 saves and turned aside all three Commandos shootout attempts. The Lions improved to 3-4-1.

the Metro Centre, are off to a 3-6-4 start.

Adding to the intrigue of tomorrow's matchup is the fact Bottomley will be coaching against Lions bench boss Troy Ryan, who played for Bottomley at the Forum in the 1990s. Ryan, a gritty forward, was among the coach's favourites.

"The smallest guy but the biggest heart," Bottomley said.

Bottomley's official win-loss record is unknown, but he estimates he has coached nearly 1,000 regular season and playoff games at the Forum. Tomorrow will give him yet another Forum story to tell — as if he doesn't have enough already.

"I could tell some good stories about that building, but I can't tell them for the paper," Bottomley said with a laugh.

"A lot of good things went on, a lot of bad things. I had a lot of good times at the Forum and I'll always call it home."

Marchand waiting patiently in the wings

NHL Brad Marchand could make his NHL debut with the Boston Bruins as early as tonight at TD Garden.

The 21-year-old winger from Hammonds Plains was recalled Sunday from the American Hockey League and is available for the Bruins' 8 p.m. home tilt tonight against the Nashville Predators. As one of 13 healthy forwards on the roster, Marchand's presence in the lineup is a fair possibility.

The Bruins are off to a sluggish 3-4 start. Marchand almost made the team out of training camp but lit up the AHL with six goals and two assists in six games with the Providence Bruins.

"I had a strong camp and when I got sent down I wanted to make sure I continued building on that," Marchand told the Wilmington Patriot-Ledger.

"They've had a tough start and I was hearing there might be some moves and an opportunity to go up. Now that opportunity has arrived and it's a pretty great thing."

Forward spots opened up this week when Milan Lucic went down for a month with a broken finger and Chuck Kobasew was traded to the Minnesota Wild. Marchand and fellow call-up Vladimir Sobotka will fill those holes, along with yesterday's acquisition of Daniel Paille from the Buffalo Sabres.

"They like to stir the pot a little, get people rattled," Bruins defenceman Johnny Boychuk told the newspaper.

"That gets people off their game ... When they're going around hitting guys, maybe scoring, it's going to help our team."

Marchand is on the second year of a three-year, $1.77-million contract. His base salary is $585,000.

Halifax won't cull Herd until later this week

HOCKEY The Halifax Mooseheads have decided to wait until later in the week to clear a couple of roster spots.

The Mooseheads, who have returned rookie defenceman Jamie Bishop to his midget team in Saint John, N.B., are carrying 26 players, two more than they would like.

With a last-place 1-13-1 record, they are looking to clear out older bodies and give more ice time to youngsters.

The Mooseheads may wait until tomorrow to make any moves. They visit the Bathurst Titans on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and host the Saint John Sea Dogs on Saturday at 7 p.m.

Win leapfrogs Huskies into 7th

FOOTBALL The Saint Mary's Huskies have climbed to No. 7 in Canadian Interuniversity Sport's football ranking.

The Huskies, coming off a win over the McGill Redmen on Saturday, leapfrogged the St. Francis Xavier X-Men, who dropped from sixth to ninth after losing to the Bishop's Gaiters on Saturday. The two 5-1 teams meet Friday at 7 p.m. at Huskies Stadium in a battle for first in Atlantic University Sport.

NHL bias claim draws a backlash

If there's a bias against drafting hockey players from a certain part of the world, it's the Russians who suffer, not Quebecers, says the NHL's top scout.

Or maybe it's players from Ontario who suffer the most, says the International Ice Hockey Federation, which included in part of its stats-based argument — tongue-in-cheek — that some Maple Leafs players are having a much better year than Alex Ovechkin.

It's all part of a backlash to the publication of a book by former NHLer Bob Sirois that alleges the NHL is prejudiced against French Canadians.

"There's nothing going on in Central Scouting that would preclude a French Canadian from making our list, or making our list more prominently," said E.J. McGuire.

McGuire said if any players are drafted later than they ought to be, it's the Russians, simply because NHL general managers are concerned they will stay home to play in the Konti-nental Hockey League.

The IIHF produced numbers of its own, showing the percentage of Quebec-born players in the NHL is almost identical to the overall number of participants in the province, while Ontarians are under-represented.

The IIHF also points out how easily numbers can be manipulated, arguing Washington Capitals star Ovechkin's 14.8 per cent shooting percentage ranks him 100th in the NHL, and behind three Leafs.

Mazda makeover

CX-7 more handsome than Japanese rivals

PETER BLEAKNEY
for Metro Canada

When Mazda launched the five-seat 2007 CX-7 in 2006, the idea of a mid-size crossover with sporting pretensions was relatively novel, and this all-wheel-drive turbocharged number with the radically raked windshield broke some new ground.

My, how things have changed. In this hotly contested and highly congested market segment the Mazda CX-7 is kinda old news.

For 2010, the CX-7 gets a midlife makeover featuring Mazda's new leering corporate visage, interior upgrades, structural strengthening and improved sound insulation, all in the name of refinement. Of more significance is the availability of an entry-level GX front-wheel-drive-only model powered by a naturally-aspirated 2.5L 161 hp four. It bows at $27,995.

All the testers on this program were fitted with the $2995 Luxury Package that added power moonroof, leather upholstery and door trims, leather-wrapped steering wheel and shift knob, heated seats (eight-way power driver's with manual lumbar support and four-way power passenger), Bluetooth and automatic climate control.

First impressions of the CX-7 GX are favourable. The interior gets improved plastics, nicely padded arm rests on the doors, a new multi-function steering wheel, gauges ringed in blue illumination with white dials, and some tasteful dark-chrome accents. The upper dash is recontoured to house the new LCD Multi Information Display that offers trip computer functions, rear view (standard on GT) and maintenance info. It's a handsome and airy cabin with excellent forward vision, and is a couple of steps up in quality from its Japanese rivals.

The DOHC 2.5L four that generates 161 hp and 161 lb.-ft. of torque at 3500 r.p.m. may be new to the CX-7, but it also does duty in the Mazda6, Mazda3 and Ford Escape.

On the highway, the GX settles into a relaxed and stable cruise, showing 2400 r.p.m. at 120 km/h. It was remarkably free of wind and road noise.

Over the twisty portions of our test route, this entry-level CX-7 showed the typical attributes of a Mazda: excellent steering feel, good body control and a general dynamic cohesiveness that suggests the development engineers do enjoy driving.

Journalism will thrive again

Bonnie Fuller says the fourth estate's future is as healthy as her resumé

JON TATTRE
for Metro Canada

With The September Issue, a documentary about Vogue's Anna Win-tour, premiering Friday, Metro decided to take a look at the powerful women in the world of fashion journalism.

Bonnie Fuller scoffs at the predictions of journalism's death. "I don't believe it's a dying breed. I think that we are in the midst of a major revolution," the celebrity journalism giant says. "There is going to be less print journalism, but that doesn't mean there isn't still a lot of journalism."

The much-Twittering

Fuller is working on a re-launch of HollywoodLife.com and has been editor-in-chief of US Weekly, Glamour, Cosmopolitan, Marie Claire, YM and Flare magazines, and is a regular guest on NBC's Today show.

"We're in businesses," she says of journalism. "When you have businesses, you have customers and you have to sell products in order to survive. It can't be viewed as simply the work of good deeds."

In other words, a free press is great, so long as someone is buying it.

A key part of her thriving media career is the Bonnie Fuller brand, as expressed in her company, Bonnie Fuller Media (Bonniefuller.com).

Bonnie Fuller, editor-in-chief of HollywoodLife.com, arrives at the sixth annual Hollywood Style Awards last week in Los Angeles, Calif.

"It was my job to become an expert on my audience," she says. "To do a good job at Glamour, Cosmo, Marie-Claire, you really have to think hard about your audience, getting to know them and understanding them."

She's "very excited" about what she thinks will be a boom time for new journalism after the recession.

"If you're a student today looking at a journalism career ... you can't think about only going into traditional magazines and newspapers. You do have to think about the opportunities of the digital world," she says. "I think traditional schools need to think about the new format. I'm not even sure that a lot of the schools adapted to the changes that were in print journalism. I don't know how much they ever taught about celebrity journalism."

Fuller's "celebrity lens" style of journalism explores the world via Michael Jackson, the Balloon Boy and Jon and Kate. "The great thing about ... celebrities today is that they come in all different ages, shapes, sizes, backgrounds and ethnic groups. There's always somebody that you can relate to."

And whatever you're dealing with, chances are a celebrity is going through the same thing. "If you're trying to decide if you're going to have a baby, well, there's a female celebrity talking about whether it's time for her to have a baby. If your marriage is in trouble and you're wondering if you can go through divorce, you can look at Jon and Kate."

Gossip is in our genes, she says. (Google her Bigthink.com interview for her take on the cavewoman roots of celebrity journalism.)

"Everyone used to talk about the weather. It was the one, standard conversation," Fuller adds. "Now, when you sit down by a stranger at a party, you can start a conversation on infidelity, sexual harassment and office romances just by mentioning David Letterman. Celebrities are better than the weather," Fuller notes.

'The worst idea' ever in the Den

Dragons' Den

Dianne Buckner

metronews.ca/dragonsden

"You're so smart — how can you be so dumb?"

"We should give you a prize for the worst idea we've seen in four years."

Those harsh comments are directed at Karen Parhar, a beautiful young entrepreneur from Saskatoon, on tonight's edition of Dragons' Den.

To say the Dragons hate her business idea is an understatement — they breathe fire at Karen!

How does Karen react to the scorching? You'll have to watch to see — but meantime, let me ask you this: How would YOU react?

When the comments are positive — that's a beautiful thing! Everybody loves being told they're doing a good job — but it's a different story when we hear that we're doing something wrong, or could be performing better.

In my opinion, any type of feedback is a gift. If someone is taking time to think about me, I appreciate it. Based on what they say, I can get better at what I do, and become more successful. To me, it says they care.

And the SavvyMom of the year is...

Small Business Week

RAFAEL BRUSILOV
for Metro Canada

Canada's top mom-entrepreneur of 2009 is proof that mom-entrepreneurs succeed best when they help support each other.

Shirley Broback, 34, was awarded the SavvyMom Mom Entrepreneur of the Year Award for her work as producer of the Vancouver Island Baby Fair. She says her win proves that self-described regular women like her can make a big difference with big dreams and big effort.

"It shows you don't have to be a big shot, just a regular person with some big plans and the confidence to put your plans into action," Broback said.

Broback beat out 316 other nominees across the country to win the distinction of being named Canada's top mom-entrepreneur along with $15,500

"The biggest challenge is to divide family time ... You turn off the cellphone, you don't check email. You have to set boundaries for yourself and it is very challenging. It's definitely a big juggling act that people have to concentrate on and figure out for themselves." Shirley Broback in cash and business services. She's overjoyed to win but credits her clients and friends for helping to make her nomination possible.

"It's such an honour to win the award. I had so many friends and family and exhibitors rallying for me. The prizes are incredible and the exposure is just phenomenal. I think it can be inspiring to other mom entrepreneurs," Broback said.

Sarah Morgenstern, publisher and founder of SavvyMom Media, which gives out the award every year says Broback won the award not only for her own work but for her support of other mom-entrepreneurs — many of Broback's exhibitors at the Vancouver Island Baby Fair are mom-entrepreneurs themselves.

"Shirley did an amazing job of spreading the word. She's a mom-entrepreneur and a mom-entrepreneur incubator — we like that," Morgenstern said.

Broback says the hardest part of being a mom-entrepreneur is finding ways to excel at the business side of your career while still making family time a priority.

"The biggest challenge is to divide family time and give yourself boundaries to that. You turn off the cellphone, you don't check email. You have to set boundaries for yourself and it is very challenging. It's definitely a big juggling act that people have to concentrate on and figure out for themselves," Broback said.

Her best piece of advice for other Canadian mom-entrepreneurs? Remember to delegate.

"You can't do it all yourself. It takes lots of other input and help and support to make your business happen, so don't try to do it all yourself," Broback said.

Shirley Broback, winner of the SavvyMom Mom Entrepreneur of the Year Award, is the producer of the Vancouver Island Baby Fair.

Finding balance at Boston's Mandarin Oriental

Sleek hotel spa ups ante in Beantown

ANNE DIMON
for Metro Canada

Boston offers numerous spas — many of which are mixed in with cafés, galleries and designer shops along chic Newbury Street in the ritzy Back Bay neighbourhood — but with the opening of the Mandarin Oriental, the spa bar has been raised.

Simply arriving at the sleek boutique hotel sets the tone for anyone seeking a sense of well-being. That could have something to do with the Feng Shui Master who consulted on the project.

Among the things he recommended was relocating the front entrance to align with the Charles River and allow the free flow of good energy from the water element. Further nods to Feng Shui principals are incorporated throughout as fire, metal and other elements are worked into the gracious and contemporary design and decor.

Located on the fourth level of the hotel, the gracious spa anchors the Lifestyle Floor. This is where you also find eight Lifestyle Rooms with special amenities such as bamboo floors, yoga mats and a selection of wellness-related reading material.

The small but well-equipped gym is also here. No worries if you've forgotten to pack your work-out gear — the spa provides. Clothing, shoes and socks come complimentary courtesy of the spa and Nike. I asked, and they delivered to my room neatly presented on a bamboo tray.

As guests enter the spa, the sound of water trickling down a marble wall sets a calming mood. Memories of other Mandarin Oriental hotels visited — Singapore, Miami, New York — come to mind and I know it's the little touches that make the MO spa collection distinctive.

The arrival ritual, for instance, offers guests a small bowl of herbal tea and a hot cloth presented on a small bamboo tray.

This one hour and 50-minute experience — including scrub, wrap and massage — incorporates local-grown herbs such as horsetail, lavender, calendula and St. John's Wort. As with most of the spa brand's specialty treatments, this one begins with a ritual foot bath and the pure resonating peal of Tibetan chimes. It's a lovely treatment and totally appropriate for a city that bills itself as the Gateway to New England.

Post treatment, it's back to the relaxation room for a quiet moment, to sip on water and snack on almonds before heading to nearby Newbury Street for a little retail therapy. It's all about balance.

Swiss reject Polanski bid for release

PEOPLE
Roman Polanski's three decades as a fugitive are coming back to haunt him.

Polanski

Noting his previous escape from U.S. authorities, Switzerland's top criminal court yesterday rejected Polanski's appeal to be released from prison because of the "high" risk that the 76-year-old director would try to flee again.

Polanski's offers of bail, house arrest and electronic monitoring failed to sway the tribunal. The United States seeks to have him extradited for having sex with a 13-year-old girl in 1977.

"The appellant has already once in 1978 eluded American criminal proceedings by travelling to Europe," the court said.

Actor voices character in animated film Astro Boy

STEVE GOW
for Metro Canada

Eugene Levy has all but disappeared from appearing on film. The SCTV legend — who's memorable on-screen creations include night club hack Bobby Bittman or Jim's well-intentioned dad from the American Pie film franchise — has been hiding in a recording studio quite a lot lately.

"Evidently, no one wants to see my face," joked the Canadian funnyman during a recent interview to discuss his latest role in the computer-animated family film, Astro Boy. It's the star's third voice-appearance in a movie in as many years.

"The odd thing about this kind of work is you've got to go in with an empty head and be prepared to give (the filmmakers) whatever they want," said Levy of his recent ventures in voice-acting.

"The very first animated thing I did, I remember going in and looking at the pages and then preparing and studying and figuring, 'Okay, I'm going to give them something different here.'"

"Then you go in and you give it to them and they say, 'Well, that's wonderful and now try it this way,' and then you realize that you're going to go through 10, 15, 20 variations on every line."

Lucky for Levy, his extensive experience as one of the writers and actors behind the heavily-adlibbed comedy hits Best in Show and A Mighty Wind (for which he actually won a Grammy Award) have added value in the voice booth.

"I'm a character actor and I get the supporting roles — and even in the animation, they're supporting roles — which means there's really more flexibility to go off-script."

In the case of Astro Boy, Levy plays Orrin, a neurotic, bumbling android-servant to young Toby, the enigmatic little boy who turns into a robotic superhero.

"You can't beat a good superhero," said Levy when asked about the ongoing popularity of the Japanese character, who first appeared in a 1951 comic.

"This is a robot who is created in the likeness of a little boy and he's got human feelings ... for this kind of an audience, you can't really beat that as your hero — a little guy who can kick ass and he's got a heart of gold."

TMZ.com founder fights Gibson case

The founder of celebrity news site TMZ.com is promising a fight after he says the Los Angeles County sheriff's department illegally obtained his phone records in its investigation into who leaked a report on actor Mel Gibson's 2006 drunken driving arrest, including details on the actor's anti-Semitic tirade.

Harvey Levin's comments came during a speech Monday night at UCLA at an event hosted by the Radio and Television News Association of Southern California. He said he considers the department's actions an assault on the First Amendment.

"It breaks federal law. It breaks state law," Levin said. "It's outrageous. We've met with lawyers and are charting our course of action. This is not going to go away."

An after-hours call to a

"It's outrageous. We've met with lawyers and are charting our course of action. This is not going to go away."

Harvey Levin, founder of celebrity news site TMZ.com sheriff's department spokesman was not answered.

Gibson was arrested for misdemeanor drunken driving on July 28, 2006, on Pacific Coast Highway in Malibu. His anti-Semitic slurs, detailed in a report leaked to TMZ.com, provoked outrage, and the Braveheart actor and director later apologized.

The officer who arrested Gibson, Deputy James Mee, became the target of a criminal investigation into whether he leaked the arrest report.

Records obtained during that investigation showed several calls between Levin and Mee's home. But authorities determined it was impossible to say who made the calls on Mee's end of the line.

Prosecutors eventually declined to charge Mee, citing a lack of proof that he leaked details about the case.

Gibson pleaded no contest in August 2006 and was given three years' probation, fined $1,400 and ordered to attend Alcoholics Anonymous meetings. Earlier this month, a judge agreed to expunge his drunken driving conviction after he successfully completed the terms of his probation.

Octomom crushes on Jon

AN INDECENT PROPOSAL Jon and Nadya plus 22? If things go sour with girlfriend Hailey Glassman, Jon Gosselin has at least one other admirer: Nadya Suleman, usmagazine.com reports.

"I kind of have a crush on Jon Gosselin," the single mother of 14 quipped to Radaronline.com. "I think he's hot ... he looks cute in purple."

But Suleman, 33, doesn't crush on Gosselin at the expense of his estranged wife, Kate. "I feel for her. I wish everyone would leave her alone," she says, admitting she's never seen a full episode of their on-hiatus TLC show. "I'm sure she trusts herself and trusts that she's strong enough to handle it."

Dating advice? "I don't think any single mother of any amount of kids should start dating," she quipped.

Her sudden sympathy for Gosselin, 34, marks a change of heart. In June, Suleman sniped of the reality-TV star, "Why are you so desperate to glob on to my life? For attention?"

And despite earlier reports, Suleman insists she has no reality show plans of her own. "I already made up my mind a long time ago," she says. "I think it's exploitative. I don't care what the dollar amount would be. It's not worth it. It's not healthy for the kids."

- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) salt
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) pepper
- 2 cans (14-3/4 oz./418 g each) salmon, drained, bones and skin removed

DILL SAUCE:

- 2 tbsp (25 ml) all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp (5 l) snipped fresh dill or 1/2 tsp (2 ml) dill weed
- 1/4 tsp (1 ml) salt
- Dash pepper
- Dash nutmeg
- 1-1/2 cups milk

METHOD:

- 1. In large bowl, beat eggs, milk, lemon juice, saltines, onion, salt and pepper. Add salmon and mix well. Shape into twelve 3-in. (7.5 cm) patties. Place in greased 15-in. x 10-in. x 1-in. (38 cm x 25.5 cm x 2.5 cm) baking pan. Bake at 350 F (180 C) 30-35 minutes or until lightly browned. 2. Meanwhile, melt butter in pot. Stir in flour, dill, salt, pepper and nutmeg until smooth. Gradually add milk. Bring to boil; cook and stir 2 minutes or until thickened. Serve with patties.

ARIES
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
It's time to make a decision about a partnership matter. If you don't make it now the decision will be made for you, so stop beating around the bush.

TAURUS
APRIL 21-MAY 21
Don't let your anxieties get the better of you today, especially in matters related to your physical, mental and emotional wellbeing.

LIBRA
SEPT 23-OCT 23
If you feel that time is running out and you need to do something quickly or miss out on your big chance then you need to get a grip on yourself.

SCORPIO
OCT 24-NOV 22
The Sun in Libra has focused your mind on things you would no doubt prefer to ignore or even pretend do not exist.

GEMINI
MAY 22-JUNE 21
You still have time before the Sun moves out of Libra to put the final touches to a creative project. It will bring you personal satisfaction.

SAGITTARIUS
NOV 23-DEC 21
Making wishes might strike you as a complete waste of time but if you focus on what you desire today you might just get it.

CANCER
JUNE 22-JULY 22
If you get involved in a falling-out between friends today you must make sure you are scrupulously even-handed.

CAPRICORN
DEC 22-JAN 20
Do you carry on with something you started weeks ago? Only you can decide but it must be one or the other. Make a decision and stick to it.

LEO
JULY 23-AUG 23
You might not believe that change is good but if you think about the positive changes of recent months you'll find it hard to disagree.

AQUARIUS
JAN 21-FEB 18
You are coming up to a critical time for work and career matters. You will get the chance to better yourself over the next three to five days. Aim high.

VIRGO
AUG 24-SEPT 22
If you want something enough you will find a way to get it but watch out it does not cost you considerably more than you expected.

PISCES
FEB 19-MARCH 20
Don't take what you hear too seriously today because it is most likely only a small part of the overall story.
